Reading that Feeds the Soul

This is one of my favorite books that gives evidence for belief in God in relation to creation. Francis Collins is a leading scientist who sees the connection between our DNA and evidence that God is the creator of all. This book causes me to marvel at the complexity of life and how God has created such an intricate and sophisticated mechanism to produce life. This book has taught me that we don't have to fear science and new discoveries, but that science and faith are in perfect harmony.
